HONOR ❄ CELEBRATE ❄ UPLIFT ❄ INSPIRE

Welcome TO OUR 2026 GALA

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 2026 STYLETAINMENT Winter Wonderland Gala.

Tonight, we come together for more than a beautiful celebration. We gather to honor life, courage, service, and legacy.

We proudly celebrate our extraordinary Breast Cancer Thriving Honorees, whose journeys remind us that a diagnosis does not define the ending of our story. We also honor our Ada Award recipient, whose life exemplifies compassion and service, and our Women's Legacy Award recipient, whose impact reminds us of the power of a life lived with purpose.

At STYLETAINMENT and Celebration Of Life Annual, we believe in giving people their flowers while they are here to receive them.

My own breast cancer journey taught me to dream bigger, love deeper, and appreciate the gift of life. Most importantly, it taught me: Legacy isn't simply what we leave behind someday. It's what we inspire while we are here.

As you experience tonight's celebration, I hope you are entertained, uplifted, and most of all, inspired to LIVE—live out loud, live boldly, live with purpose, and never apologize for living the life God gave you to live.

Thank you for being here, for supporting our honorees, and for celebrating this extraordinary evening with us. Now enjoy the experience — and when the music begins...

DANCE LIKE NOBODY IS WATCHING!

With love and gratitude,

Missouri

Hattie Smith is a two-time breast cancer thriver, inspirational entrepreneur, woman of faith, advocate, and dedicated community servant whose life reflects courage, perseverance, compassion, and gratitude.

Hattie has a special and longstanding relationship with STYLETAINMENT and Celebration Of Life Annual, Inc. (COLA). She serves as a trusted Advisor, is a prior recipient of the prestigious Ada Award, and returns this year as Mistress of Ceremonies for the 2026 STYLETAINMENT Winter Wonderland Gala.

Receiving the Ada Award recognized Hattie for qualities that continue to define her today—service, compassion, faith, encouragement, and the positive impact she makes in the lives of others. Her continued involvement represents exactly what COLA seeks to inspire: people using their own journeys to uplift and serve others.

Hattie's personal journey as a two-time breast cancer thriver has strengthened her commitment to encouraging women to become advocates for their health. Her mantra is simple but powerful: "Know your body." She encourages women to listen when something does not feel right, seek medical attention, ask questions, and never be afraid to get a second opinion.

After her first breast cancer diagnosis, Hattie faced a second, more aggressive diagnosis in January 2016. Through chemotherapy, radiation, and reconstruction surgery, she leaned deeply on her faith and credits God with giving her the wisdom and strength to research her diagnosis, understand what she was facing, and move through her journey with courage.

Her experience also inspired her to create Hattie's Inspirational T-Shirts (HITS), using inspirational messages to promote breast cancer awareness while connecting encouragement with the Word of God.

A New Jersey native, Hattie is the daughter of Doris and Charles Pendleton and one of seven siblings. She has made Bucks County, Pennsylvania, her home for more than 30 years with her husband, Gary, whom she lovingly calls her "ROCK." She is the proud mother of three daughters—Tanesia, Jasmin, and Camille.

Today, Hattie continues to transform her experiences into awareness, encouragement, faith, and service.

From Ada Award recipient to Advisor to Mistress of Ceremonies, Hattie's journey with COLA is a beautiful example of what happens when those we honor continue to reach back, serve, and help us honor others.

We are proud to welcome Hattie Smith as our 2026
Mistress of Ceremonies as she helps us

Kristal Elaine

VOCALIST

Kristal Elaine has been singing for as long as she can remember, with music woven throughout every season of her life. Her journey has included theater, weddings, funerals, dinner theaters, special events, and secular performances, as well as Christian music and worship. Through it all, Kristal has come to understand one defining purpose: her voice and her life are gifts to be used for the glory of Jesus Christ.

A wife, mother of three adult children, and grandmother of two, Kristal considers her greatest identity to be a servant of Jesus Christ. Her faith has taught her to be grateful not only for life's victories, but also for its trials and valleys, believing that some of the greatest testimonies are born through the things God brings us through.

That conviction has become especially meaningful as Kristal stands in faith alongside her husband during his journey with cancer. She believes in the power of prayer, the miraculous power of God, and that God has the final say.

Kristal is also prayerfully developing a Christ-centered family ministry that she and her husband will lead together, with a heart for bringing souls to Christ, healing, restoration, faith, and family. Her children love the Lord and will be part of that growing legacy.

Whether through music, ministry, a hospital encounter, or an everyday conversation, Kristal's mission is to point others toward Jesus.

As she sings "Testimony" in honor of breast cancer survivors, Kristal celebrates life, perseverance, gratitude, and the testimonies that can emerge from life's greatest trials.

"And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus..."

- Colossians 3:17 (KJV)

Celebrating LIFE

PEOPLE ♥ PURPOSE ♥ POSSIBILITY

Celebrating individuals while they are alive allows us to express our appreciation, gratitude, and love directly to them.

It provides an opportunity to acknowledge their positive qualities, accomplishments, and the impact they've had on our lives.

Celebratory moments become cherished memories. By celebrating people while they are alive, we contribute to creating a reservoir of positive memories that can be a source of comfort and joy for both the individual and those who celebrate with them.

In essence, celebrating the lives of people while they are alive is a meaningful and affirming practice that contributes to the well-being of individuals and the communities they are a part of. It adds richness to life, enhances relationships, and creates a more positive and supportive social fabric.

Queen Ada Ann Watson-Hood

Queen Ada Ann Watson-Hood, born on October 12, 1924, she emerged as the eldest among her siblings—two sisters and a brother. Transitioning from the South to the North during her early teens marked a significant chapter in her life.

Despite facing challenges, she bore a gentle yet determined spirit, possessing a remarkable ability to propel progress.

As an entrepreneur, she grasped the significance of nurturing INSPIRED DREAMS.

THE DREAM ♥ Begins

Missouri was born in Saint Michaels Hospital, Newark, New Jersey, on October 5, 1956 and is the third youngest of seven siblings, 1 sister and 5 brothers.

God is the source of her life, her mother “Ada” is the force in her life and her children are the wind beneath her wings.

“1965 a small beating heart became alive, a rebirth one would say, how fitting it would happen on Christmas day!”

— says the Story Teller

It was 1965 when Missouri's Mother, “Ada” gave her a Barbie Doll for Christmas. Using remnants from her mother's sewing baskets, young Missouri designed and hand made her Barbie a complete wardrobe.

She proceeded to give her mother a cardboard runway fashion show on the dining room table, as she played gospel music in the background.

“Mother loved gospel music.” — says Missouri

After the show she looked up at her mother and said,

“One day I am going to do a BIG Show.”

Her mother patted her on the head and said,

“sure your will child...sure your will.”

In that moment young Missouri could feel the electricity from her mother's hand on her head and she knew one day she really would do the “BIG Show”...

Her mother
INSPIRED and NURTURED THE DREAMER within her.

Consequently, she evolved into a celebrated renowned fashion designer and visionary of STYLETAINMENT.

And it all began with Ada...

A BARBIE DOLL, DINING ROOM TABLE...
AND A MOTHER WHO ALLOWED HER LITTLE GIRL TO DREAM.

Denise Russo-Caiazzo is a nationally recognized leader, entrepreneur, actress and advocate whose career demonstrates that purpose, influence and success are not defined by age but by vision, perseverance and the willingness to inspire others.

As President and Owner of Ms. Senior America, LLC, Denise oversees one of the nation's premier organizations celebrating the accomplishments, talents, and dignity of women over the age of 60. Through her leadership, she has worked to preserve and strengthen the organization's mission while creating opportunities for women across the country to gain confidence, develop lifelong friendships and serve as ambassadors for positive aging.

After an earlier career as a New York fashion model, Denise boldly reinvented herself as a professional actress in her late sixties. Since returning to the entertainment industry, she has earned roles in feature films, television, commercials, voice-over work, public service campaigns and digital productions. Her work has demonstrated that talent has no expiration date and that older women belong on screen in meaningful, multi-dimensional roles.

Denise has also become a recognizable presence on social media through comedic performances that have reached hundreds of thousands, and in some cases more than one million viewers. Her ability to connect with audiences through humor and authenticity has introduced a new generation to the idea that aging can be vibrant, relevant and joyful.

Beyond business and entertainment, Denise is an award-winning baker, accomplished event designer and passionate mentor who believes creativity should be expressed in every stage of life. Whether organizing national events, mentoring contestants, creating memorable experiences or performing before the camera, she approaches every endeavor with enthusiasm, professionalism and heart.

Despite living with multiple auto-immune diseases, Denise has never allowed adversity to define her future. Instead, she has used each challenge as motivation to pursue new dreams, encourage other women to take chances and demonstrate that reinvention is always possible.

Beyond her many accomplishments, Denise has always believed that success is measured by how many lives you touch. Each year, she supports "A Place Called Love", a residence in the making for homeless cancer victims. Serving others has been one of the most rewarding parts of her life.

Her leadership philosophy is simple: lift others as you climb. Through her work, Denise continues to champion confidence, resilience and opportunity for women, proving that some of life's most meaningful accomplishments begin long after society expects them to.

Today, Denise lives in Pennsylvania with her husband, Floyd, her Pomeranian, Draco, and with her two children living nearby. She continues to lead Ms. Senior America, LLC, expand her acting career and inspire women nationwide to embrace every new chapter with courage, grace and purpose.

My Cancer Journey

*H*i, my name is Belinda. I am a proud breast cancer survivor, a mother, and a woman of faith. I was diagnosed with Stage II breast cancer at the age of 36, with no prior history of cancer. At the time, I was working as a 9/11 NYPD Traffic Enforcement Officer, raising my two beautiful children, Jonathan and Naya.

When I received my diagnosis, fear and uncertainty filled my heart. I cried out to God, asking Him for a sign—asking Him to show me that I would live to raise my children.

That Sunday morning, while attending church, I prayed deeply for reassurance.

What happened next could only have been God's work.

As I stood praying, a woman was placed directly behind me. When I turned around, I felt compelled to speak to her and shared that I had cancer and was scheduled for surgery that very day. She took me aside and told me something that changed my life forever: she had the same stage, the same type of breast cancer, and the same surgery—only four hours earlier. In that moment, I knew God had sent her as a sign. My fear was replaced with peace. I knew I was going to live. I knew I would be here for my children.

Today, by God's grace and mercy, I am a 20-year breast cancer survivor.

Just as God placed that angel in my life, I now dedicate myself to being that source of hope for other women. I stand as a living testimony that faith, early detection, and family support save lives. My mission is to walk alongside women facing breast cancer—offering encouragement, prayer, a listening ear, and unwavering support.

I am here to remind women to trust God, to never lose hope, and to believe that healing is possible. Together, through faith, awareness, and early detection, we can continue to fight and eradicate this disease.

I am a Survivor for a Reason.

My Cancer Journey

*I*n 2010 after my mammogram, I was told I had to return as they saw something. I did and it turned out to be an encapsulated tumor that was cancer in the left breast.

I had a lumpectomy of the left breast. When that is done, the doctors like 3 inches on each side of the tumor. I had 3 inches on only three sides and 2 inches on one side.

I didn't have to have chemotherapy but I had to have radiation of the left breast. The radiation stopped the left breast from growing so I had to have a breast reduction on the right breast.

It worked only for a short time. I have to use a breast prosthetics on the left side so that the breast are the same size.

I've been cancer free until last month. They thought something was seen and I had a biopsy last month. God is good and it turned out to be non-cancerous. I have cystic breasts, so thank God I remain blessed and cancer free.

I have been cancer free and a survivor for 15 years.

*M*aggie's professional career includes rising in ranks to the position of Senior Claims Adjuster for CNA Insurance Company, where she was employed for nearly two decades, before becoming a Certified Pre-school teacher. Driven by her passion to serve the senior community, she pursued a new career as a Certified Home Health Aid to the elderly.

A grim diagnosis of Breast Cancer that has spread to her lymph nodes, faced with multiple horrific debilitating side effects to several cancer treatments, shook Maggie's life in 2023. She has chosen to live with positivity and gratitude, unwavering in faith, and well educated on her options for treatment. Maggie decided to channel her energies to helping others affected by breast cancer, by actively getting involved in various spiritually uplifting fundraising projects, which includes creating a delightful and meaningful high tea fundraiser on her birthday to benefit a local non-profit providing luxurious respite for weary breast cancer warriors needing pampering. Maggie continues her crusade to build a legacy that empowers her "Pink Sisters" in various impactful ways!

Hello, I am Valerie Good, I am a mother of two adult children, grandmother of six intelligent, loving grandchildren, and great grandmother of two darling little girls. I am a daughter, a sister, and a friend. I am also a newly Certified Etiquette Consultant. I am a soon to be retired Administrative Assistant and Secretarial Coordinator for one of New Jersey's Best Place to Work Law Firms. I am also a Cancer Thriver.

My life with cancer, thankfully, was short. Unlike many of you here I did not have to fight the battle or have the challenges some cancer thrivers have or have had to endure. I was one of the fortunate ones. No chemo treatments, no radiation treatments, no loss of hair. I had no scary days, nor nights of worry. I had no symptoms, no breast secretion, or lumps. It was silent.

Well, one might wonder, why am I here? I am here to say cancer comes in many forms and we should take every precaution to act on its discovery immediately.

It was a sunny day on August 12, 2024, the oncologist said, I had intraductal carcinoma in situ of my left breast, stage 1 cancer. Prior to that I was living my life, healthy, active, ready to begin planning my future and soon to retire.

I have always had my annual mammogram and became accustomed to hearing my results showing calcium deposits, from as early as 1987, this was when I had my first needle biopsy. It was a very traumatic experience; we did not have the technology as we do today. Thankfully, the results of my biopsy were negative. Since that time, all future annual mammograms continued to show the same calcium deposits, specifically, in the left breast, all without any fanfare.

It was in mid-October of 2023 that I began to experience lower back pain, for no apparent reason. I decided to mention the pain in one of my regularly scheduled doctor visits. Wherein he scheduled me for an Xray. Those findings were the beginning of more visits and several MRI's with and without dye. May 2024, tests results from a CT chest scan with IV contrast showed secondary malignant neoplasm of an unspecified site. I had to undergo six biopsies. The cancer cells showed in the upper and lower portions of my left breast.

My oncologist and I talked about the next steps. I would have to undergo a mastectomy, removal of the breast tissue in the locations of the cancer cells. While my cancer was in its first stage, one would ask, and I did ask what if I decided to do nothing, what about I wait until it goes to stage two? She said I could, but the cancer would continue to spread and could affect other parts of my body. Considering this information, I felt waiting would not be the best decision. My surgery was on September 19, 2024.

I had a second surgery, Reconstruction of the left breast in November of 2024.

I have my daughter, Nadiyah Sa'id-West to thank for being there with me throughout the whole experience, and for leaving instructions for my two beautiful granddaughters, Ayana Kareem and Suhaylah Muhammad, who was there every night and day to change my dressings and measure the fluids, keeping track of every detail, and making sure I was resting. Thank you to my dear friends, Robin Alexander, and Zarifah Mateen, shopping and delivering my groceries. Oh, and Robin thank you for the pillows.

One note: After having gone through with the one mastectomy, if I could turn the clock back, I would have decided on removing both.

Remember to go for your annual mammogram test. Like me, some of you may not have any signs or indication something has invaded your body. Stay on top of it. We only have one body, take care of it.

I thank God I am still thriving and enjoying my life.

I am a Cancer Thriver

*A*t 78 years old, I received news that would change my life. I was diagnosed with stage one breast cancer. At that moment, I had a choice: to live in fear or to stand in faith. I chose faith. I leaned on God with everything in me, trusting that He would carry me through this season. Deep down, I held onto the belief that I would be okay.

When treatment began, fear tried to creep in. There were moments when I looked at my body and felt overwhelmed with uncertainty. It was hard not to let my thoughts wander into dark places. But each time fear showed up, I reminded myself that I was not alone.

Throughout every appointment, procedure, and treatment, she trusted that God was walking beside her. Her Savior was walking beside me through every appointment, every procedure, and every difficult day.

One of my greatest blessings during this time was my daughter. She stepped in as my caregiver and became my strength when I needed it most. She was always there, sometimes so involved that it felt overwhelming, but her love never wavered. Her devoted daughter lovingly cared for her and became a source of strength during the most difficult days. Looking back, I realize that everything she did came from a place of deep care and concern. I am truly grateful for her support.

What weighed heavily on me was trying to understand how this could happen. I had always been intentional about my health. I kept up with my doctor's appointments, stayed aware, and took care of myself. It didn't make sense. But in time, I came to see the truth: my commitment to regular screenings helped save my life through early detection.

Because I paid attention, the cancer was caught early.

At first, I kept my diagnosis close to my heart. I wasn't ready to share it. There was a sense of fear, even a little shame, and I didn't want people to see me differently. But my daughter saw things differently. She began opening up to family and friends about what I was going through. At first, I wasn't sure how I felt about that. But then I began to understand her purpose.

She wasn't just telling my story, she was helping others.

She reminded me that by sharing my journey, I could encourage others to take their health seriously, to get checked, and to not ignore the signs. Initially private about my diagnosis, she found the courage to share her journey and inspire others to embrace faith, hope, and the importance of screening. Slowly, I began to let go of my hesitation. What once felt like something to hide became something meaningful to share.

And just like that, my secret was no longer a secret.

In the end, that turned out to be one of the greatest blessings of all. My journey became bigger than me. It became a testimony of faith, strength, awareness, and the power of love and support.

Today, Nancy is 91 years young and THRIVING—
—a beautiful testimony that life continues beyond cancer.

Breast cancer changed my life long before it ever changed my body.

At 32, I noticed a hard lump near my left nipple. It didn't hurt, and part of me hoped it would disappear after my cycle. Instead, it grew. Then another lump appeared. Something in me knew I couldn't ignore it.

My doctor initially reassured me it was probably nothing – I was young with no family history. But I insisted on imaging. After ultrasounds, mammograms, and biopsies, the answer came on a quiet Friday night while I was alone scrolling through Instagram. I opened MyChart and read the words that would divide my life into before and after:
invasive ductal carcinoma.

S*tage 1B. Aggressive. Fast-growing.* Within two months, the cancer had progressed to stage 2B and spread to my lymph nodes. Treatment would include chemotherapy, surgery, and radiation. I shifted into survival mode, doing whatever it took to fight for my life.

But cancer didn't just expose what was happening in my body. It exposed what was happening in my life.

Just days after starting chemotherapy, I discovered the father of my then two-year-old daughter – the person who promised to do life with me – had betrayed me. Standing there, physically weak and emotionally shattered, one thought cut through everything:

I am already fighting for my life. I'm not going to also fight for someone to half-love me.
So I chose myself.

Through treatment, I began rebuilding my life from the inside out – journaling, praying and prioritizing my healing emotionally, spiritually, and physically. Cancer stripped away the pressure to appear like I had everything together and forced me to live more authentically.

Today, I'm a proud single mother to my daughter Amari, who inspires me every day. I have turned my pain into purpose by partnering with several breast cancer organizations as a mentor, breast health educator, and model. Every time I show up in one of these roles, I'm reminded that survivorship isn't just about me. It's about lifting others up, too.

*Because surviving cancer is only the beginning.
Thriving afterward is the real transformation.*

Tina Graham's Cancer Journey

*T*ina Graham was going about her normal routine, balancing the demands of work, travel, and everyday life. Like many women, she made time for her annual mammogram, never imagining that a simple screening would become the beginning of one of the most challenging chapters of her life.

*S*hortly after her mammogram, Tina was on her way to the airport, focused on her busy schedule and upcoming commitments. Then her phone rang. On the other end was her medical team informing her that her mammogram results were abnormal and that a biopsy was needed as soon as possible. Though concerned, Tina remained calm and promptly scheduled the procedure.

A few days later, she arrived in Florida for an important business meeting. As she settled into her trip, her phone rang again. This call would change her life forever. Her doctors informed her that the biopsy results had come back positive for cancer and instructed her to report to the cancer center immediately upon her return.

*T*he news felt foreign, shocking, and confusing. Questions raced through her mind. How could this be happening? What would happen next? For a time, the diagnosis seemed impossible to process. But eventually, reality set in, and Tina's cancer journey officially began.

*W*hat followed were weeks and months filled with doctor's appointments, treatments, uncertainty, and determination. Rounds of chemotherapy and radiation took over her life. The routines she once knew were replaced with treatment schedules, medications, and recovery days. Isolation became her new normal as she focused on protecting her health and finding the strength to keep moving forward.

*C*ancer has a way of changing a person. Some changes are physical, while others run much deeper. Tina discovered reserves of courage, faith, resilience, and perseverance she never knew she possessed. Through every challenge, she leaned on her faith, family, friends, and the unwavering belief that she would overcome.

Then came the day she had prayed for.

April 1, 2026.
Blessed to be cancer-free.

On that unforgettable day, Tina proudly rang the bell, marking the end of her treatment journey and the beginning of a new chapter.

To God Be the Glory!

Lots of people choose not to discuss life insurance and the funeral costs left to their loved ones in the event of their passing.

The last thing your survivors should have to worry about during this most difficult time is how to pay for your funeral.

Let me help you find a final expense plan that both fits your budget and relieves your survivors of this burden. Premier Legacy Final Expense Solutions® will assist with the funeral planning, as well as protect your loved ones from rising funeral costs. Information and quotes are free, with no pressure to buy.
